Empirical experiment of experimentally generated ready-to-use pedagogic conceptual networks

(corresponding to analysis in Subchapter 11.2 of Lauri Lahti's doctoral dissertation "Computer-assisted learning based on cumulative vocabularies, conceptual networks and Wikipedia linkage" (Lahti 2015a) and (Lahti 2015b, Appendixes AA–AD))

The framework proposed in publication [7] relies on a process in which the learner traverses hyperlink network of Wikipedia along a route generated based on verified notion that spacing exposures and retention at optimal intervals can support adoption of concepts and knowledge. As a part of our research we have already experimentally generated a variety of ready-to-use pedagogic conceptual networks for selected learning topic vocabularies concerning many popular conceptual themes of knowledge used actively in everyday life and encountered often in educational setting addressing diverse combination of characteristics of learner.

Here we present a collection of experimentally generated ready-to-use pedagogic conceptual networks:

Trying to keep our analysis transparent and comparable for other research in this field we carried out further experiments with such vocabularies that are based on generally accepted recommendations about measuring a person's evolving language ability along consecutive stages of learning and empirically identified representative conceptual distributions for each of these stages.

To address these aims, we considered that Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFRL) is useful since it offers guidelines about how to measure language ability with six progressive levels that have been supplied with illustrative descriptors created and scaled with Rasch modelling based on Swiss surveys in 1994–1995 covering 300 teachers and 2800 learners ((Council of Europe 2001); (North 1996/2000)). These six levels of language ability in increasing order of expertise have been labeled with names A1 (Breakthrough), A2 (Waystage), B1 (Threshold), B2 (Vantage), C1 (Effective operational proficiency) and C2 (Mastery). First two levels have been classified to represent abilities of a basic user, two next ones abilities of an independent user and two last ones abilities of a proficient user.

While establishing CEFRL has enabled efforts to define vocabularies needed for each language ability levels that can be compared between various European languages large incompatibilities have been identified concerning the size of sufficient vocabularies for each language ability level and some vocabulary sizes have been suggested in the following ranges: 400–3300 words for level A1, 800–4000 words for level B1, 1100–6800 words for level B2 and 3300–30000 words for level C2 (Kusseling & Decoo 2010). Since defining cut-off points between language ability levels is a subjective process it has been suggested that each level can be further divided hierarchically to sublevels with a branching approach that enables to address local needs while still maintain easy positioning in respect to commonly shared higher-level framework.

Level C2 (Mastery) has been defined so that it does not imply abilities of a native-speaker but instead such precision, appropriateness and ease with the language that typically belong to highly successful learners. Along formation of six levels of language ability of CEFRL some simple general task were identified in the Swiss surveys that were scaled below level A1 but can be defined as objectives for beginners of language learning, including making simple purchases, asking and telling time-related information, using basic greetings and expressions of politeness, filling easy forms with personal details and writing a simple postcard.

Working document of European Commission (European Commission 2012) mentions estimates made by non-profit assessment organisation Cambridge ESOL (meaning Cambridge English for Speakers of Other Languages) now known as Cambridge English Language Assessment (Cambridge English for Speakers of Other Languages (ESOL) / Cambridge English Language Assessment 2013) about how many guided hours of learning are required to reach the language ability levels A2-C2 of CEFRL including 180–200 hours for A2, 350–400 hours for B1, 500–600 hours for B2, 700–800 hours for C1 and 1000–1200 for C2.

Based on several hundred thousand examination scripts of Cambridge Learner Corpus and multi-billion word Cambridge English Corpus and sponsored by Council of Europe there has been an effort to define English vocabulary covering each of six language ability levels of CEFRL and this has been resulted in formation of English Vocabulary Profile that is a database aiming to represent all words and phrases learners know at each of six levels of CEFRL (Capel 2013). From online database of online English Vocabulary Profile (http://vocabulary.englishprofile.org/dictionary//word-list/uk/a1\_c2/A) offered by Cambridge University Press we retrieved in June-July 2013 all words and phrases belonging to each of six language ability level ranging from A1 to C2. Thus we gained a series of cumulative vocabularies of six language ability levels of English Vocabulary Profile ranging from A1 to C2.

Since the six vocabularies gained from English Vocabulary Profile seemed to express such gradual evolution of a learner's vocabulary that are not clearly fixed to specific ages of the learner it seemed interesting to parallel English Vocabulary Profile to a resembling series of vocabularies that are fixed to specific age of the learner, especially in years of childhood and early youth. In this respect we considered that a useful resource is Oxford Wordlist that defines high-frequency wordlists for five consecutive strongly age-related categories of learners. Oxford Wordlist has been created based on writing samples collected in Australian schools in 2007 from about 1000 students of three first school levels (labeled somewhat confusingly as “Preparatory” (1891 samples), “Year 1” (951 samples) and “Year 2” (934 samples)) gaining over 160000 words (Lo Bianco et al. 2008) and in 2009 from 896 students of fourth and fifth levels of school (labeled again somewhat confusingly as “Year 3” (1437 samples) and “Year 4” (1251 samples)) gaining over 315000 words (Bayetto 2010). According to our understanding, the last four of these five school levels correspond approximately to ages ranging from 6- or 7-year-olds to 9- or 10-year-olds and Preparatory level corresponds to a bit younger ages.

From online database of Oxford Wordlist (<http://www.oxfordwordlist.com/pages/search.asp>) we retrieved in June-July 2013 all words belonging to high-frequency lists of each of five school levels ranging from Preparatory level to Year 4 level, when performing downloading the only setting we varied was school year, thus keeping settings concerning gender, language, indigenouness, school setting, location and text type always at option “any”. In further analysis we consider that the series of high-frequency word lists of five school levels of Oxford Wordlist can sufficiently well represent a series of partially cumulative vocabularies of these five school levels and thus we refer to each of these high-frequency word lists with term vocabulary. Even if this our decision is somewhat coarse we considered it still sufficiently useful to enable to get some preliminary results when generating cumulative conceptual networks.

It appeared to us that the series of vocabularies in English Vocabulary Profile can reflect vocabulary needs belonging to English-for-secondary language having varying ages that largely represent already maturity and culturally diverse global backgrounds whereas series of vocabularies of Oxford Wordlist can reflect vocabulary needs belonging to specific age categories of childhood and early youth having culturally somewhat shared localized national context (i.e. Australia).

Table 11.2 shows the amounts of words we retrieved from online databases of both English Vocabulary Profile and Oxford Wordlist. To keep our new experimental setup sufficiently simple and to maintain comparability with our earlier experiments we decided to limit our further analysis concerning words retrieved from Oxford Wordlist and English Vocabulary Profile only to common nouns. The words of English Vocabulary Profile are inherently labeled with part-of-speech tags thus helping to extract only nouns. Since we did not have access to any part-of-speech classification concerning Oxford Wordlist (i.e. in available listings of Oxford Wordlist words were not labeled with part-of-speech tags) in further analysis we decided to contrast each of five high-frequency wordlists of Oxford Wordlist with full list of nouns extracted from vocabulary of range of language ability levels A1–C2 of English Vocabulary Profile. Thus if a word belonging to a high-frequency wordlist of Oxford Wordlist was found to exist also in a full list of nouns extracted from vocabulary C2 of English Vocabulary Profile then this word was considered as a noun also in this high-frequency wordlist of Oxford Wordlist. Even if this contrasting process possibly caused some concepts to be incorrectly accepted to be nouns in high-frequency wordlists of Oxford Wordlist we considered that this process was still sufficiently useful to enable to get some preliminary results. Please note that in following analysis the given exact values that we have computed based on vocabularies we retrieved from Oxford Wordlist and English Vocabulary Profile can contain unintentional small inaccuracies due to challenging computational process. Appendix AA shows all unique nouns we retrieved in June-July 2013 from cumulative vocabularies of English Vocabulary Profile for six language ability levels ranging from A1 to C2. Appendix AB shows all unique nouns in high-frequency lists we retrieved in June-July 2013 from Oxford Wordlist (nouns extracted based on co-occurrence among nouns of C2 vocabulary of English Vocabulary Profile) for five school levels ranging from Preparatory to Year 4.

Table 11.2. Properties of cumulative vocabularies of five language ability levels of Oxford Wordlist ranging from Preparatory to Year 4 and six language ability levels of English Vocabulary Profile ranging from A1 to C2.

Oxford Wordlist			English Vocabulary Profile
School level	Unique words in high-frequency list	Unique nouns in high-frequency list (nouns extracted based on co-occurrence among nouns of C2 vocabulary of English Vocabulary Profile)	Range of language ability levels reached so far	Unique language items (words or phrases)	Unique nouns
Preparatory	1923	685	A1	785	305
Year 1	2364	811	A1–A2	2382	880
Year 2	3041	1008	A1–B1	5327	1761
Year 3	4808	1412	A1–B2	9502	2707
Year 4	4949	1445	A1–C1	11908	3198
			A1–C2	15715	3710

From Table 11.2 it can be seen that when a learner reaches the range of language ability levels A1–C2 of English Vocabulary Profile she is expected to know 15715 unique language items. Among these 15715 language items we identified 5853 unique words or groups of words supplied with a part-of-speech tag signifying adjective, adverb, conjunction, determiner, exclamation, noun, preposition or pronoun (some words or groups of words were supplied with more than one parallel part-of-speech tags). With a closer examination, among these 15715 language items belonging to range of language ability levels A1–C2 we identified 3710 unique nouns.

We generated conceptual networks relying on the hyperlink network of the Wikipedia (as of in June-July 2013) connecting collections of nouns having gradually increasing sizes as indicated in Table 11.2 for both Oxford Wordlist and English Vocabulary Profile. Please note that in contrast with earlier analysis largely relying on Wikipedia hyperlink network dating from the beginning of March 2008 we used in this further analysis Wikipedia hyperlink network dating from late June and early July 2013.

Concepts of consecutive ranges of language ability levels of English Vocabulary profile can be considered cumulative so that next ranges of language ability levels almost always (with very few exceptions) contain all concepts belonging to all previous ranges of language ability levels whereas consecutive vocabularies of Oxford Wordlist can be considered only partially cumulative since there is only partial overlap between consecutive vocabularies. These two different kinds of behavior affect also interpretation of Wikipedia hyperlinks connecting unique nouns in respect to both Oxford Wordlist and English Vocabulary Profile so that these hyperlinks can be considered cumulative for English Vocabulary Profile whereas hyperlinks can be considered only partially cumulative for Oxford Wordlist since there is only partial overlap.

However, it needs to be noted that, as show in Table 11.2, our analysis with collections of nouns having various sizes can be expected to represent indirectly coverage of vocabulary that is much larger than the number of nouns alone. Thus for example according to Oxford Wordlist a learner who has adopted already 1445 highest-ranking nouns of English (that can reflect vocabulary needs of school level “Year 4”) can be expected to have propably adopted at the same time already 4949 words altogether (i.e. these 4949 words containing words from also other word classes than just nouns) and according to English Vocabulary Profile a learner who has reached range of language ability levels A1–C2 can be expected to manage 3710 nouns but at the same time probably already 15715 language items altogether. We think that the range of vocabulary sizes we decided to use in our analysis can sufficiently well approximate vocabulary level processes of learning and knowledge management in human mind since our vocabulary sizes quite well approach and at least partially reach the range of vocabulary sizes suggested in previous research as suitable for reasonable human understanding.

With our method educational material is presented to student with cumulative conceptual networks based on hyperlink network of Wikipedia connecting concepts of vocabulary about current learning topic. Personalization of educational material is carried out by alternating the distribution of enabled hyperlinks connecting concepts belonging to current vocabulary according to requirements of learning objective, learning context and learner's knowledge. So far our method accepts only nouns to vocabularies since hyperlinks in the Wikipedia are typically defined to connect nouns but also other part-of-speech could be possibly exploited with a resembling approach.

Thus for life-long learning an ultimate aim can be to reach a maximal coverage of the conceptual small-world networks representing all human knowledge and besides that even some personal contribution could be done to supplement this heritage of human knowledge through own writings and other forms of conveying new knowledge to the community (and possibly a scale-free version of small-world network being the most preferable). On the other hand, we think that all knowledge entities can be seen to consist of a complex collection of interconnected, overlapping and nested small-world networks so that each separate new learning topic can be considered to be learned as an own specific small-world network that becomes gradually more and more connected also to other small-world network structures held already so far in the mind of student.

When creating a hyperlink network of vocabulary based on hyperlink network of the Wikipedia we suggest extracting a relation statement for each hyperlink of Wikipedia from phrase surrounding hyperlink anchor of end concept in article text of start concept. For example for a hyperlink pointing from concept Music to concept Art one relation statement from article text of start concept Music is "Music is an art form whose medium is sound and silence." (here hyperlink anchor underlined). We suggest that during exploration in hyperlink network of vocabulary when student traverses a hyperlink between concepts learning of this relationship is supported by showing to the student a relation statement corresponding to this hyperlink. Eventually a learning session consists of a chain of traversed hyperlinks and their relation statements that can be guided to proceed in a sequential process having tailored variation and repetition computed based on theory of spaced learning, as explained in our previous work in publication [P7] and discussed in Subchapter 11.1.

To enable implementing educational technology for practical educational activities for students we have carried out empirical experiments to try to identify some constraints of conceptual scale-free small-world networks and to better understand behavior of their properties. Thus besides developing a computational method for exploiting conceptual scale-free small-world networks to manage and explore educational material we now also report some preliminary findings of experiments about the properties of conceptual scale-free small-world networks that we have generated based on hyperlink network of the Wikipedia connecting concepts of vocabulary about current learning topic.

Table 11.3 shows properties of conceptual networks that we have generated based on hyperlink network of the Wikipedia (as of June-July 2013) between concepts we retrieved from English Vocabulary Profile (http://vocabulary.englishprofile.org/dictionary//word-list/uk/a1\_c2/A) for cumulatively growing vocabularies corresponding to each of six language ability levels ranging from A1 to C2.

At the highest language ability level C2 we have the most extensive vocabulary that we call as vocabulary A1&A2&B1&B2&C1&C2 (i.e. including all six cumulative vocabularies of consecutive language ability levels A1, A2, B1, B2, C1 and C2 together) and we identified that it contains 15715 unique language items (words or phrases) that include 3710 unique nouns. Then we wanted to identify all possible hyperlinks that are connecting these 3710 unique nouns in hyperlink network of the Wikipedia and we found 25153 unique hyperlinks so that they actually connected 2878 unique nouns of these 3710 unique nouns. Appendix AC shows a full listing of all 25153 unique hyperlinks between 3710 unique nouns of vocabulary A1&A2&B1&B2&C1&C2 containing 2878 unique nouns. Appendix AD shows for each vocabulary ranging from A1 to A1&A2&B1&B2&C1&C2 unique nouns in unique Wikipedia hyperlinks connecting unique nouns in vocabulary so that nouns are listed separately for each language ability level. For each observed vocabulary ranging from A1 to A1&A2&B1&B2&C1&C2 a full listing of unique Wikipedia hyperlinks connecting unique nouns in vocabulary can be extracted from listing shown in Appendix AC by taking into consideration only those hyperlinks whose start concept and end concept belong to nouns of currently observed vocabulary among vocabularies ranging from A1 to A1&A2&B1&B2&C1&C2.

Appendix AA

As discussed in Subchapter 11.2, this listing shows unique nouns we retrieved in June-July 2013 from cumulative vocabularies of English Vocabulary Profile for six language ability levels (http://vocabulary.englishprofile.org/dictionary//word-list/uk/a1\_c2/A): A1 (305 nouns), A2 (880 nouns), B1 (1761 nouns), B2 (2707 nouns), C1 (3198 nouns) and C2 (3710 nouns).

In contrast with Appendix AB, please note that concepts of consecutive ranges of language ability levels of English Vocabulary profile can be considered cumulative so that next ranges of language ability levels almost always (with very few exceptions) contain all concepts belonging to all previous ranges of language ability levels whereas consecutive vocabularies of Oxford Wordlist can be considered only partially cumulative since there is only partial overlap between consecutive vocabularies.

Appendix AB

As discussed in Subchapter 11.2, this listing shows unique nouns in high-frequency lists we retrieved in June-July 2013 from Oxford Wordlist (nouns extracted based on co-occurrence among nouns of C2 vocabulary of English Vocabulary Profile) for five school levels (<http://www.oxfordwordlist.com/pages/search.asp>): Preparatory (685 nouns), Year 1 (811 nouns), Year 2 (1008 nouns), Year 3 (1412 nouns) and Year 4 (1445 nouns).

In contrast with Appendix AA, please note that concepts of consecutive ranges of language ability levels of English Vocabulary profile can be considered cumulative so that next ranges of language ability levels almost always (with very few exceptions) contain all concepts belonging to all previous ranges of language ability levels whereas consecutive vocabularies of Oxford Wordlist can be considered only partially cumulative since there is only partial overlap between consecutive vocabularies.

Appendix AC

As discussed in Subchapter 11.2, we identified 3710 unique nouns in vocabulary A1&A2&B1&B2&C1&C2 of English Vocabulary Profile covering cumulative vocabularies of six language ability levels ranging from A1 to C2 (as of June-July 2013). In hyperlink network of Wikipedia (as of June-July 2013) between these 3710 unique nouns of vocabulary A1&A2&B1&B2&C1&C2 we identified 25153 unique interconnecting hyperlinks containing 2878 unique nouns. Following listing contains all 25153 unique hyperlinks, here notation A>B denotes a hyperlink leading from concept A to concept B (corresponding to a hyperlink leading from Wikipedia article A to Wikipedia article B).

Among 2878 unique concepts the biggest subentity that enabled traversing hyperlink chains between any of concepts belonging to this subentity in hyperlink network of vocabulary A1&A2&B1&B2&C1&C2 when any hyperlink can be traversed in both actual linking direction and opposite direction contained 2850 unique concepts and there were 28 external unique concepts (shown in Appendix AD). 14 unique hyperlinks of 25153 unique interconnecting hyperlinks containing these external 28 unique concepts include: remark>comment, directions>direction, ending>end, exhaust>exhaustion, hole>opening, networking>network, northwest>southeast, programme>program, registration>register, resemblance>similarity, scene>scenery, superiority>superior, terms>term and willingness>will.

Appendix AD

As discussed in Subchapter 11.2, this listing shows in respect to English Vocabulary Profile for each vocabulary ranging from A1 to A1&A2&B1&B2&C1&C2 unique nouns in unique Wikipedia hyperlinks connecting unique nouns in vocabulary so that nouns are listed separately for each language ability level. For each observed vocabulary ranging from A1 to A1&A2&B1&B2&C1&C2 a full listing of unique Wikipedia hyperlinks connecting unique nouns in vocabulary can be extracted from listing shown in Appendix AC by taking into consideration only those hyperlinks whose start concept and end concept belong to nouns of currently observed vocabulary among vocabularies ranging from A1 to A1&A2&B1&B2&C1&C2.

In contrast with Appendix AE, please note that concepts of consecutive ranges of language ability levels of English Vocabulary profile can be considered cumulative so that next ranges of language ability levels almost always (with very few exceptions) contain all concepts belonging to all previous ranges of language ability levels whereas consecutive vocabularies of Oxford Wordlist can be considered only partially cumulative since there is only partial overlap between consecutive vocabularies. These two different kinds of behavior affect also interpretation of Wikipedia hyperlinks connecting unique nouns in respect to both Oxford Wordlist and English Vocabulary Profile so that these hyperlinks can be considered cumulative for English Vocabulary Profile whereas hyperlinks can be considered only partially cumulative for Oxford Wordlist since there is only partial overlap.

Among 2878 unique concepts the biggest subentity that enabled traversing hyperlink chains between any of concepts belonging to this subentity in hyperlink network of vocabulary A1&A2&B1&B2&C1&C2 when any hyperlink can be traversed in both actual linking direction and opposite direction contained 2850 unique concepts and 28 external unique concepts include: comment, direction, directions, end, ending, exhaust, exhaustion, hole, network, networking, northwest, opening, program, programme, register, registration, remark, resemblance, scene, scenery, similarity, southeast, superior, superiority, term, terms, will and willingness.
